THE DAILY BULLETIN will be delivered to any part of the city at 6 cents a week, or one year for $3.

THE DAILY BULLETIN to any postoffice in the United States, postage prepaid, at twenty-five cents per month or three dollars per year.

TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 31, 1887.

THE last Court of Claims of Fayette County appropriated over $20,000 for turnpikes and bridges.

It cost Fayette County $2,500 to index the Circuit Court records and place them in first-class order.

THE Prohibitionists of Bracken County held a convention yesterday to nominate a candidate for the Legislature.

MAYOR DONIPHAN, of Augusta, was nominated yesterday for the Legislature by the Prohibitionists of Bracken County.

It seems that Colonel Bradley is still engaged in an effort to manage the campaign this year for Kentucky Democrats.

THE city tax levy at Frankfort this year is $1.25 on the $100, and the assessed value of property amounts to $2,377,229, yielding a tax of over $30,000.

THE Union Labor leaders and Colonel Bradley are pulling together in the present campaign, but the Democrats will knock them all out in August.

LET every politician and candidate explain this constitutional convention business to his friends and followers and urge them all to vote for the matter next August.

KENTUCKY "took the cake" last month on the manufacture of whisky. There were one hundred and sixty-six distilleries running, and the daily out-put was 105,526 gallons.

THE postmaster at Carlisle gets a salary of $1,000 a year. That office is the last to be filled in this State by Presidential appointment, and there is rejoicing among Democrats.

HERE, you Republicans, how is this? Kentucky State Bonds are quoted above par. Ohio has to sell State bonds at a discount to put some money in the empty treasury. Let Mr. O'Bradley take the stand.—Louisville Times.

THE Democratic primary election Saturday in Bracken County resulted in the nomination of Joseph Walton, of Germantown, for the Legislature, by seventy-five or one hundred majority. Not much interest was manifested, and a light vote was polled.

FRANKLIN County will vote, July 6th, on a proposition to subscribe $150,000 to the Frankfort, Georgetown and Paris railroad, $100,000 to be paid when the road is built from Frankfort to Georgetown, and $50,000 when completed to Paris. It is thought the proposition will carry.

THE Louisville Commercial says of Colonel Bradley, the Republican nominee for Governor: "He always talks well, but when his speech is put into cold type the weak places in his argument are more easily seen. His attempt to make capital out of the present revenue law is done at the expense of fair dealing."

HON. W. H. WADSWORTH, the famous lawyer and Ex-Congressman from Maysville, Ky., who was taken with a severe attack of heart disease while arguing a case in court at Minneapolis last week, is well-known in Louisville among the members of the bar, and it is sincerely hoped he may recover from his alarming illness. He is not only one of the best lawyers, but one of the most accomplished men in Kentucky, and has a fine, polished mind. It will be remembered that he was a leading counsel for the prosecution in the celebrated Green-Hargis libel suit, the largest trial in the legal history of the State. Although he lost the case, he won the admiration of the attorneys on both sides by his skill and ability.—Louisville Post.

HERE's a paragraph from the Louisville Times to show what Kentucky is coming to under Democratic rule:

Why not put our judgeships up at public auction, so that the money realized therefrom may go into the common fund?—Daily Republican.

The above is a weak and silly effort of the Republican to prejudice the people against the Democratic party. The editor of the Republican knew when he copied the above that vote-buying and vote-selling is no worse in States where Democrats rule than it is in States where Republicans rule.

The Republican should show just how the Democratic officials at Frankfort are responsible for the corruption in judicial elections at Louisville, or anywhere else in the State.

And then when it comes to buying and selling votes, the Republican knows well enough that its party does as much of it as any other party.

COLONEL BRADLEY, Republican, nominee for Governor, wants to be careful how he manages his campaign, or the people of Kentucky will set him down as a trickster. His opening speech was made at Somerset the other day, and the affair was advertised by the following circular:

"Political speaking at Somerset, Ky., Monday, May 23. Hon. W. O. Bradley and General Simon Bolivar Buckner, candidate for Governor, will address the citizens of Pulaski at the court-house in Somerset, at 1 o'clock p.m., Monday, May 23. Ladies invited."

The Democrat feels called on to make a few sensible and altogether appropriate remarks concerning this circular. It says:

"Mr. Bradley knew that General Buckner would not be able to be at Somerset on the same day the committee met at Lexington; and to allow his friends to foist a poster of the above class on the public is, to say the least, a little out of the way of high-toned gentlemen. If his friends acted without his knowledge or consent, they should publicly acknowledge that they prevaricated for the sake of getting up a crowd to hear their candidate, upon whose merits alone they could not rely to draw a respectable audience. They should, at least, give their authority for making such an announcement."

THE suspension of the Maysville Eagle recalls the career of its editor, Colonel Thomas M. Green, who shot like a meteor across the political firmament of Kentucky more than thirty years ago, before he attained his majority. In 1856 he made a remarkable canvass of Southern Kentucky in advocacy of native Americanism, or Know-nothingism, and in the interest of Millard Fillmore, who was the American candidate for President. Green was then a boy, but his eloquence, his knowledge of political history, his courage, and his audacity were the admiration of his friends, who regarded him as an admirable Crichton.

He met in joint discussion many Democratic politicians, and generally came off victor. It was said that George D. Prentice wrote the speeches that he delivered, but Green's subsequent career evidenced that it was a slander.

The Eagle was an able and often brilliant journal, and but for the vagaries of its editor would have been a power in the land. Its suspension will occasion several sighs of relief in the bosoms of several Eastern Kentucky politicians.—Louisville Times.

"The Slough of Despondency" in which you are wallowing, on account of some of those diseases peculiar to you, Madame, and which have robbed you of the rosy hue of health, and made life a burden to you, you can easily get out of. Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will free you from all such troubles, and soon recall the rose-tint of health to your cheek, and the elasticity to your step. It is a most perfect specific for all the weakness and irregularities peculiar to your sex. It cures ulceration, displacements, "internal fever," bearing-down sensations, removes the tendency to cancerous affections, and corrects all unnatural discharges. By druggists.

The Verdict Unanimous. W. D. Suit, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles and was cured of rheumatism of ten years' standing." Abram Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my twenty years' experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the liver, kidneys or blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at J. C. Pecor & Co.'s and S. P. Campbell & Co.'s, Aberdeen, O.

Excitement in Texas. Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this great discovery for consumption free at J. C. Pecor & Co.'s and S. P. Campbell & Co.'s, Aberdeen, O.

IN MEMORIAM. Charles Gilmore Yago was drowned at Covington, Ky., May 14, 1887, aged fifteen years. May he rest in peace.

Bright youth's sweet promises unfulfilled—The waves sweep over life's sunlit way;

The ruthless river still sings its song;

Tho' a household joy it hath quenched for aye.

Entered into him, O, Lord!

His heart was honest, his spirit brave.

Out of the depths sad souls bowed down

To thy fathomless will, sweet mercy crave.

O, hearts in agony, listen to God,

He hears, tho' He smites you, the desolate cry,

He leads you, but gently, the self same way

He led His mother to see Him die.

Watch for a ray from His face divine,

Tw' will come, a bright herald of hope and love,

Tw' will bring sweet faith to open the way

That peace may enter—the deathless dove.

Why should ye mourn him? He knew no care.

Why should ye murmur? He gave no pain.

Only of love was his short glad day,

In joy eternal he lives again.

Strew bright fresh roses, he died so young.

'Tis well, but see how they fade away;

Bring prayer, sweet prayer, with your crown of woe,

To Christ whose promise ne'er decays.

SHANNON.

It was a beautiful, impressive and touching service with which the tender form of little Willie Suit was laid to rest in Shannon cemetery on Sunday last. Elder Hall, of Newport, administered words of comfort and cheer to the bereaved parents, founding his remarks on the First Epistle of Peter, third verse. Willie's little school mates, boys of near his own age, were his pall bearers, and the dear little girls of the village whom he loved so well brought wreaths of roses and honeysuckles in advance of the procession. Willie Suit was in his ninth year, and was the oldest son of W. T. and Lizzie Suit. He died from sequels of scarlet fever. His parents have the sympathy of the entire community. The readings, prayer and sermon were interspersed with inspiring songs of sweetest melody, given by Miss Nannie Bland, with organ accompaniment.

BUT little work has yet been done on the railroad bridge at Crooked Creek, about eight miles above here. It is one of the worst places to build along the route. Over three hundred piles will be required for the foundation, and the driving of these will be a six or seven weeks' job. Mr. Randolph, who drove the piles along Front street, has the contract. The nest is built in an old fruit can on a shelf in an out-house. This year the bird has beaten all previous records, and has been setting for some time on twenty-five eggs, which our informant claims is all of her own laying.

TROUBLE on the Sherlock. When the excursion steamer Thomas Sherlock left Cincinnati Sunday morning there were thirteen hundred passengers on board. The Enquirer says "the three-shell men and robbers and thugs of their like were well-represented. All went well until the boat got several miles up the river. Beer was sold freely on board, and the result may be readily surmised. A gang of drunken loafers terrorized the more respectable passengers, until at one time it appeared as if the gang would take possession of the steamer. The crowd was so tough that many got off when the boat touched at New Richmond, and returned by another steamer. No one is known to have been seriously hurt, although a number of "scraps" occurred."

IT took all day to make the trip to this city, and the return trip to Cincinnati was as slow and tedious, the boat arriving at that place about 4 o'clock Monday morning. Cincinnati people are hard up for pleasure and recreation when they take such a trip.

Patrick Ryan of the North Fork neighborhood setting ten acres in one day, employing twenty hands, all Ryans—his own and his brother Tim's children. There will be a 50 per cent. reduction in the planting this season. Great scarcity of plants."

On Monday morning, Decoration Day, the Post and Sons of Veterans, after short services at the M. E. Church, marched to the cemetery and there, after short but appropriate services, paid their respects to the resting places of their fallen comrades. ## ANTI-POVERTY SOCIETY.

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY FROM THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Dr. McGlynn Was the Chief Speaker on the Occasion—Flowers For the Popular Divine—Extracts of His Address Which Were Enthusiastically Received.

NEW YORK, May 31.—There was such a large attendance at the meeting of the Anti-Poverty society last night at the Academy of Music that hundreds were turned away unable to get admission to the building. Every seat in the vast auditorium was filled. John McMackin presided. Henry George and James Redpath were among those on the platform. Dr. McGlynn, president of the society, was the chief speaker of the evening. His appearance while Mr. McKackin was speaking caused such an outburst of applause that the chairman had to bring his remarks to a close and introduce the popular divine.

The audience rose and cheered vociferously and waved handkerchiefs in greeting. The demonstration lasted several moments. Two little girls walked upon the stage and presented Dr. McGlynn with flowers, and a large floral anchor which was brought forward from among the audience and placed in front of the stage. When Dr. McGlynn could make himself heard he began his address, in the course of which he said: "It is a glorious thing to be permitted to justify the ways of God to man, to hear the sermons of God; to forget ourselves, to suffer, to fight, to die for justice. There is a fierce delight in the strife, and dying for justice becomes a thing of joy."

In another part of the lecture he said: "It is a mistaken idea of religion that we should exalt the spiritual nature of man to such an extent as to ignore his material traits. Teaching man how he can obtain bread would not be of itself sufficient to enlist enthusiasm, nor worth the sacrifices it perhaps shall cost. But when we see that on the question of obtaining bread lie questions of eternal justice, then we are ready to preach, if not from Christian pulpits, from the stages of theaters, in the market place, from the bark by the seashore or from the tail of a cart, the great spiritual truths underlying this labor question. [Great applause.] These places were not unworthy of them if they had been worthy of the Savior."

Dr. McGlynn declared that in the name of sweet religion sanction was being given to an unpardonable crime—the giving to a few of that which God created for all, and was claimed that a title founded on a hundred or two hundred years possession was a better title than the right of eternal justice. The speaker apologized for referring to his personal affairs. He said he had no quarrel with the spiritual dogmas of the Holy Catholic church, and on this holy Whit Sunday morning he had knelt before an humble Catholic altar, and he hoped not unworthily partook of the sacrament. So little did he fear that the gospel of the new crusade contradicted Christ's precepts that he had prayed that God might send His Holy Spirit down to enable him to preach it for the comfort and edification of God's children. Dr. McGlynn indicated by many remarks in the course of his address that he had no idea of abandoning the doctrine that private property in land is wrong and is a chief cause of human misery.

Pleuro-Pneumonia Scare.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 31.—The steamer Rainbow, from Louisville, yesterday brought down a shipment of about five hundred cattle consigned to Evansville buyers. When the boat arrived at this city considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the cattle up the levee, and three head died before reaching the street. Dr. Fleming, a veterinary surgeon, was sent for, and after making a careful examination pronounced the trouble pleuro-pneumonia. The cattle had been confined near the boiler and became overheated. When they arrived here the drove rushed into the water and drank quantities of it. This was assigned as the cause of the disease. The humane society has telegraphed the facts to Chicago, where the surviving cattle were sent, and asked that an examination be made on their arrival. There is a strict quarantine in Chicago now, and the matter will receive prompt attention.

The Knights of the Switch.

WINCHESTER, O., May 31.—The Knights of the Switch, the terrors of Jefferson Township, of this, Adams county, have again come to the front. Since the raid on the disreputable house near Westerville several weeks ago, in which one of their number was killed, the knights have been quiet. This morning, however, at Waynesville, the knights left evidence that they were still ready for their deeds of outlawry. James Newman, a merchant of Waynesville, on going to his store found a notice tacked on the shutter threatening him with a whipping if he sold a certain piece of property to parties objectionable to the knights. Mr. Newman says he has no fears of the gang, and will sell his property to whom he pleases. Serious trouble is anticipated, as the knights have generally carried their threats into effect.

The dies have been examined by experts, who give it as their opinion that the most experienced hands at the business must have made them. No clue to the operators have been discovered.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—Charles Mowwe, aged fifteen, and Joseph Biehler, aged twenty-two, started boating yesterday morning, when their skiff struck a pier of the Ninth street bridge, over White river, and both were drowned.
